Going down step by step, the citrus and woody scents of Ligurian vegetation enchant and stun, blending perfectly with the sparkling sensation of lemon. A window overlooking the sea tells of the indomitable and enchanting power of nature, bestowing a metallic and salty undertone.

Product Description

Between Paraggi and Portofino, just at that point where cypress undergrowth overhangs the water, sea breezes smooth the rocky coast and mingle with the first scents of vegetation that become gradually but increasingly dominant and wild. Natûa (literally “nature”) originates from a careful balancing of myrtle, rosemary, juniper and lemon.

Olfactive Notes

The aromas of rosemary, juniper, cypress and myrtle stand out, uniting with the note of the magnolia plant and the citrus freshness of lemon to reproduce the undergrowth setting.
